CLOVERPORT, KY.

They Wash Once a Year.

The facility with which washing is done by the use of borax accounts for its popularity in the low countries and in Germany, where to many families washing comes but once a year. The notion of cleanliness which prevails among the better class of Germans forbids the storing or accumulation of soiled linen in the dwelling house, hence the necessity of the "schwaertschwaeschen," built near by, where the soiled or unwashed clothes are hung up, exposed to the air, on poles or lines. We cannot but commend them for this custom, and it would be well for those housekeepers to take a hint who store soiled garments in the chests of sleeping rooms and under the beds.

The humblest German housewife does not feel her poverty (she has an abundance of linen, and this she will have if possible, to the exclusion of other things which we might regard almost as useful. She is rich indeed if at the end of six months or a year she can display long lines hung with immaculate linen. We can thus understand how even at this day a chest of linen is regarded among the peasantry as a part of their dowry or marriage portion of the bride.

For those washings a week is usually taken and the event is regarded as no ordinary one. It is something of a jubilee in which the entire family takes part. An American lady traveling in Germany witnessed one of these "frölichs," where four or five women were washing from one capacious tub. When asked why they did not adopt the easier plan of washing weekly, one of them replied that "they feared the people might think they had lost two garments apiece."—Fittsburg Dispatch.

Original Ideas and Dreamsmakers.
In my experience I have long since come to the conclusion that if you are not a fashion plate, an actress or a society woman celebrated as a model on which dressmakers show new exhibits, you must do your own thinking when you want something a little different from one of a dozen turned out at the manufactory. But in case you find yourself under the necessity of doing your dressmaker's hand work, there is no need of going to a first class man or woman who sends first class bills. You must find a woman who fits well, who is not so stubborn but that she will take and execute some one else's ideas, who will become interested in the work for the work's sake and who is intelligent enough to do some suggesting herself. But I hear my readers exclaim: "That pearl is impossible to find."

It is perhaps difficult, but not impossible. I have never found it so. When I lived in America it was almost impossible to convince my friends that I did not wear imported dresses, that I had them made right in town; and here in Paris I have been faithful to my little obscure dressmaker for the last ten years for garments—cloaks as well as dresses. These dressmakers, like good servants, can be found. There are a few of them left, and I don't see why I should not be as clever as my neighbor, find them out and have the benefit of their services.—Paris Letter.

Reminiscence of Chinese Trades Union.
The trades union of China resort to terrible remedies in order to carry out their ends. I heard of a case in Shanghai where an employer did something contrary to the rules of the guild of his workmen. His men objected, but he refused to accede to their demands, and they concluded to make an example of him. He had more than 100 men working for him. These at a concerted signal sprang upon him and commenced beating him. They had a leader, and this leader would not let one of the men go away from the place without showing his teeth, and if the teeth and gums were bloody he was allowed to go out.

The plot was gotten up on the basis that there was to capital punishment in China for hitting. They hit the man to death and the matter came to the ears of the government. There was a little fuss about it, but the guild was a strong one, and only the man who took the first blow was punished. The punishment of members within the guild for acting contrary to its rules are equally terrible.—Frank G. Carpenter in National Tribune.

Really Quite Merciful.

It was in the New York Central depot. A well dressed lady with her little Lord Fauntleroy son approached the door leading to an outgoing train. Both were laden with bundles. A railroad official stood by the door.

"Open the door or I'll punch your head," exclaimed Fauntleroy in a very swagger voice, and the official, amused by the six year-old's audacity, consented to become doorkeeper for the occasion and complied.

The mother showed that she was angry as she swept through the door, and as it closed she asked Fauntleroy by the shoulder and shook him severely.

"Aren't you ashamed of yourself?" she asked, "to be so impertinent to the gentleman."

"Yes, mamma," replied Fauntleroy, "it was only just foolin'. I wouldn't 'a' pinched him!"—Sydney Journal.

A Small Leophole.

Housekeeper—I know that milk fresh from the cow is warm, but that you left here yesterday was hot—hot and this, too, just as if boiling water had been poured in it.

Milkman—Oh, the milk's all right, mum—no water in it; no, indeed, mum. Housekeeper—Then how came it to be almost boiling hot?

Milkman—Why—er—you see, mum, some of the cows has typhoid fever.—Good News.

What Cleanliness Really Is.

What is needed is not that a place shall merely look clean, but that something shall be used that will get it so that it shall be to some extent scientifically clean. This means that it shall be purified from microscopic germs as far as possible, which simple soap and water will not reach.—New York Tribune.

The great treasury vault at Washington covers more than a quarter of an acre and is twelve feet deep. Recently there was $50,000,000 in silver stored there, an amount that weighed 4,000 tons and would load 170 freight cars.

The fishing industry at Portland, Or., and vicinity is rapidly increasing. The amount of mackerel packed in Portland alone last season was 17,000 barrels, or more than 10,000 barrels in excess of the season before.

One of the latest discoveries of the scientists is that the germs of yellow fever may be conveyed from tropical countries in the plumage of birds.

MY SAILOR LOVER.

I watch and wait,
My sailor's love,
That brings my sailor here,
I wait for him to go by,
But still I wait and wait,
But never know his name,
My love and sailor's love.

To me alone
The sailor's love
That brings my sailor here,
I wait for him to go by,
But still I wait and wait,
But never know his name,
My love and sailor's love.

With weary heart
The sailor's love
That brings my sailor here,
I wait for him to go by,
But still I wait and wait,
But never know his name,
My love and sailor's love.

Free life and day
The sailor's love
That brings my sailor here,
I wait for him to go by,
But still I wait and wait,
But never know his name,
My love and sailor's love.

NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 22, 1892.

GUSTON.

Miss Ellen Yewell, of Bartonsville, is visiting her cousin H. L. Bell.

Miss Kittie B. Mansford is at home spending vacation from the Covington, Tenn. College.

Mr. Harry Menow, of Glenhaine, is visiting his friend, Harry Bell. Menow is a good shot and is a regular "pioneer."

Mrs. W. R. Toomey and her beautiful and accomplished daughter Miss Florence are visiting Mr. H. B. Livers family.

Miss Maude Adkins, of Sherman, Tex., is at home on a vacation. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Darlin, of Louisville.

Mrs. J. M. Hendricks, of Sandy Hill, is on a Western tour to visit relatives in Kansas, Oklahoma and will touch several other Western points, before she returns.

On Thursday afternoon, the 19th inst., quite a select party, consisting of Misses Maule and Mrs. Washington, Miss Spears and Mrs. Helm, of Lexington; Miss Goodson, Miss Henry and Miss Carigan; Messrs. Newman, Carter, Robinson, Washington and Bell were splendidly entertained by Mrs. Hornum in her hospitable home in "Quality Corner."

At 4 o'clock the party was driven to a cave about a mile distant from the house, on Mrs. Hornum's farm. In point of size, of course, it does not compare with the Mammoth, but as regards stalactites it is superior to either the Mammoth or Wyandott. After we had finished our curiosity was required to the house where tea was served in true old Kentucky style. Mr. and Mrs. Bates Washington acted as chaperons.

For a week and half feeling, loss of appetite, general debility, Lightning Blood Elixir is the best tonic. It is entirely vegetable, contains no mercury or other mineral poisons. Mrs. N. E. Allen White Oak, Ky., writes: "Lightning Blood Elixir is certainly the true elixir of life. I have used it, and it has cured me of many years' suffering. I can recommend Lightning Blood Elixir as a lady's friend."

HARDIN COUNTY.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wathen, of Brandenburg, was here this week.

Miss Mary Emma Kirtz, of Webster, Ky., is the guest of Mrs. J. G. Hinkley.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bavin, of Cloverport, are visiting Mr. H. M. Hagan and family.

Miss Minnie Branch has returned home from Mitchell, Ind., where she has been for several months attending school.

Miss Lizie Seese and Mrs. Shacklette leave today, (Friday) for Lebanon, Ohio, to spend several weeks in the Normal Institute there.

George Winder, a colored brickman, while compiling cars at Shepherdsville last Friday was caught in such a manner as to leave both legs broken.

Two indictments returned against R. L. Smith, ex-School Superintendent of Hardin county, for embezzlement, were on Tuesday dismissed on technical grounds.

Referred to the Grand Jury at the next term.

Another commencement has marked the close of the thirty-second school year of Cecilian College, and fresh laurels have been added to this old institution, which has been such a potent factor in the education of our young men.

The Hardin County Training and Pleading Association has been organized and the following directors have been elected: John L. Helm, W. H. Marriott, Sam. Glascock, John Combs and H. B. Park. R. B. Park was elected president and secretary.

"April showers make May flowers," and wet feet make hot colic, but Lightning Cough Drops will cure any cough, hoarseness, or croup. Mr. J. M. Cacy, Zenda, W. Va., says: "Lightning Cough Drops are something wonderful. I do not think there is any medicine in the world that will give better satisfaction. Will do all claimed for it." All dealers sell it.

EXPLORING ALASKA.

THRILLING EXPERIENCES OF A PARTY OF SCIENTISTS.

The Strange Land of the Far Northwest has many interesting features—there is no ice—St. Elias not a volcano.

Mr. Israel C. Russell has returned to Washington from that region of eternal ice and snow in Alaska, where the highest peak in North America rises to an altitude of 10,000 feet from a glacier 1,000 square miles in area and as big as all those of the Alps put together.

Along the edge of the glacier, all the way from Jay's Yakiut bay, there extends a strip of green coast which is covered with luxuriant vegetation. Strawberry vines cover the ground for miles, and the violet fields are redolent as far as the eye can reach with luscious fruit, which compares favorably in point of size and flavor with the finest grown in temperate latitudes. There are huckleberries, too, and "salmon berries," which are something between huckleberries and raspberries, but of giant size, measuring nearly two inches in diameter. All the lowlands are carpeted with violets, buttercups, yellow monkey flowers and other wild blossoms. Here and there, in the midst of the vast ice fields, are the loveliest gardens watered by the melting snow.

There are plenty of grizzly bears in the vicinity of Mount St. Elias, but Mr. Russell did not find them very dangerous. He says that his encounters with them reminded him of killing pigs. Of brown and black bears he saw and shot a great many. The expedition met with enough perils, however, to satisfy the most adventurous geographical explorer. Nearly all of the climbing had to be done up steep walls of ice and snow by cutting steps. At almost any time a slip would have precipitated the party down the frozen precipices thousands of feet. On one occasion they were descending when they found that an avalanche had carried away the steps which they had made in going up. The treacherous staircase was destroyed for 800 feet, and they had to lower a man by a rope to chop out another, there being no other way of getting down. Such accidents as this were not uncommon.

HAIRBRANDS ESCAPES.

Avalanches were continually falling, rushing down the slopes with the speed of railway trains and with a roar like thunder that could be heard twenty miles away.

One night about 11 o'clock the party was passing over a bad place in the Agassiz glacier. Two men were in the lead, drawing a sled. Suddenly they disappeared from sight, having fallen into a fissure in the ice. Luckily they were caught upon a projecting ledge at the depth of about twenty feet, else they would never have been seen again. They were hauled out next morning, and next day in the same neighborhood Mr. Russell chanced to look behind him and saw that the ice field over which he had just passed was gone, leaving an enormous hole of unknown depth. Another time one of his men tumbled into a crevice, and was only saved by the pack fastened to his shoulder, which interrupted his progress through a twist in the frozen tunnel that had yawned for him.

The Agassiz glacier is one of the four great glaciers which, together with about a hundred small ones, flow out from the mountains at the north to the mighty Malaspina glacier, pouring their streams of ice continually into this vast frozen sea. This glacier of Malaspina, from 1,600 to 2,000 feet thick, is interesting, not merely because of its enormous size, but also by reason of the fact that it is the only one ever in existence of the same type as the glacier which formerly covered all of this continent as far south as Philadelphia and St. Louis, leaving traces that are visible to this day in scratches on the rocks.

A GLACIAL RIVER.

Where the land in that region is bare of ice the vegetation attains an almost tropical luxuriance, and the Arctic jungles are very high impenetrable to the explorer. One of the chief obstacles encountered in threading this is a plant known as the "devil's club," which grows to a height of ten or fifteen feet, its stems running about the ground for some distance and then turning upward. Every part of its surface, even to the tips of the leaves, is thickly set with spines, which inflict painful wounds, and break off in the flesh cause festering sores. In the Lewis glacier occurs a most interesting feature in the shape of a glacial river which comes out from a mountain through an archway of ice, flows for a mile and a half in plain view, and then is lost to sight in another tunnel. Where the stream emerges finally is unknown.

Brookings has as yet been bold enough to enter the tunnel and drift through, after the fashion of Alton Quaternary and Malaspina. The greatest risk in such an undertaking would be from falling blocks of ice. At the mouth of the tunnel there are always confused noises and rhythmic vibrations to be heard to a height of ten or fifteen feet, resembling the voices and songs of inhabitants of the earth. It used to be supposed that Mount St. Elias was a volcano and sea captains sailing on the Pacific have been told when they were about to be smoke rising from its summit; but this is a mistake, and it is probable that the alleged smoke was merely steam, launched down upward by the wind.

THE CASE FOR HUMANITY IN MEXICO.

I heard yesterday that the French killed for horseflesh is initiated to such a degree as to be a disgrace to the country. Several invitations have been received by proprietors of Parisian restaurants to a grand banquet of the next, announced to take place in one of the principal restaurants of Berlin. Dishes prepared on, from horses, will be served, and the menu comprises the following: Roast horse, with trapezoid horse tongue, glass and ornamented, horse brains a la Toulouse; roast loin of horse, with cranberries, horse and corn, with salad.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

THE DECEASED.

James Toles, a well-to-do colored man, near Plain City, O., was awakened a few nights ago by the unusual barking and howling of his dog, and going to the door with his shotgun fired at the figure of a man standing near one of several apple trees on which his German shepherd was perched. The figure fell, and Toles, thinking it was a burglar, went forward, found it to be a dummy, made with old clothes stuffed with straw. In the meantime thieves had carried away seven fat cobs.—Exchange.

Price Hays Ris Shes 1860.

Mary Woods filed a suit in the Law and Equity Court this morning against the Owensboro & Nashville Railway Company for $20,000 damages.

She states that on June 5, 1862, her husband, while a passenger on a train of the defendant company, was killed by collision of this with another of said company's trains and that his death was the result of the willful negligence of the defendant's servants. Wherefore she demands in the sum and for above, Jas. F. Galtier is attorney for the plaintiff.—Louisville Post.

William Hawkins has applied for a license for a fine crop of tobacco this season.

The new building for the school, which was along the plank looking promising, has been completed.

Payne & Co.'s new building was christened last night by the young people of the city. One of the most pleasurable social balls ever given was the result.

John and John Lytle went to Chicago, where they were to make a business call, and after looking around at the premises in operation there, came back to the city on the evening train. The news of their return.

"Blind" Sawyer and Miss Lamar were married at Hawsville last Wednesday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Wilkerson, and the bride and groom came to this city on the evening train. The news of their return.

The City Council, in the name of the people, should present Geo. Miller with a bonus for building up per cent. in the Tax Collector office. He saved the city $20,000, compared with last year, and then did not get it.

We are requested by "Candy" Black, of Holt, to extend the thanks of himself and family to the friends who so kindly assisted in nursing, and by other acts of kindness showed their regard and friendliness in his last sickness.

"Little" Jim Miller is trying to avoid the summer heat by wearing a suit of weather by wearing under his shirt.

John and Arle Wardell have obtained one of the new rooms on the second floor of the News building, and are now moving into it. There are yet two more new, comfortable and desirable rooms for rent on the same floor.

Of the many attractive things in town on the day of the Bunkersville News' big excursion was the parade by Suler's troop of uniformed boys. Something new and startling can always be expected of this enterprising business house.

Mr. Harry Nutting, the young engineer and electrician, has just completed his new relay, and is now discharging some strains of music every evening in his orchestra.

Mr. Mike Jungling accompanied him on the band.

The Apollo Quartet of DePaul University will give an entertainment in the Presbyterian church on Saturday night, June 24. Proceeds to go to Church Building Fund. Come and enjoy your selves as well as a good cause.

Persons desiring lots in Eastland, near the corner of the city, will find them there. They are very cheap and will sell very rapidly in the present season.

Mr. A. S. Allen, of Chennault, came down on the City of Owensboro Saturday morning and returned the same day to the City.

As usual, there will be a picnic at the Hill Hotel, near Union street, on the fourth of July. All who go there can expect to pass an enjoyable day.

The colored people had a well attended picnic in Lafferty's Grove Saturday and a grand "Fruit Show" whatever that is in the "Inculcator" at night.

The Council Meeting.
The Cloverport Council met Friday night with a full attendance.

The report of the engineers establishing the grade on Wall street was received and accepted.

Bids for city tax collector were received as follows: James Hamilton, $9 per cent; John Miller, 10 per cent; Dr. R. L. Newsum, "One-half of one per cent, lower than any body else."

Newsum got it at 10 per cent, though it was supposed to be 12 per cent. The rate has been placed at sixty cents on the hundred dollars, and $1 on the poll.

Used work ordinances were introduced by Councilman Pierce which require that every dog, pig or bitch within the city shall be registered and a tax of three dollars a year paid on each.

All dogs found running loose on the streets without a collar and the proper register tag attached shall be shot by the marshal. All stock—hogs, hounds or cattle—found running loose within the city limits shall be taken up and placed in a pound, which can be redeemed by the owners, by paying $1.00 a head and a nominal fee. If not redeemed within a specified time will be sold for the benefit of the city.

These ordinances were referred to the Ordinance Committee, and will probably be passed at the next meeting of the Council with some modifications.

The Mayor was authorized to build a fence around the jail and establish a rock pile within, so that prisoners who do not pay their fine can be made work without the expense of paying a guard. He was also authorized to seat the court room properly.

Shot At Him Twice.
Last Sunday morning the people in the neighborhood of Miller's lively stable were startled by two loud reports from a revolver, and it was soon learned that Tom Adams, colored, had shot at J. S. Jackson, white.

The particulars were hard to learn, but it seems that Jackson and Elsie Fisher, an old colored man, who tends the stable, were into a dispute about hiring a horse when Adams stepped in and joined in the conversation. Jackson made some remark to Adams about it not being his place to make a fool of him, and Adams immediately drew a revolver and fired twice, missing Jackson.

Adams was then taken to the jail by a constable, and he had better attend to his own business, when Adams immediately drew a revolver and fired twice, missing Jackson.

Our Mid-Summer Stock

Offers many inducements to purchasers. The goods in quality and desirability are at the top, while prices have reached the bottom figures for this season's Goods.

LAWNS, MULLS, BEDFORDS, LACE CURTAINS, CURTAIN POLES, LACE MITTS, MOSQUITO BARS, Etc.

What's the Matter With It? If you think there's anything the matter with your watch, let us take a look at it. Don't let it get into a state of disrepair. A few drops of oil will do more for you than the ordinary wear and tear of a whole year of keeping it. Any watch is well worth caring for. The matter for you to do is to get the better watch taking care of it. Of the kind of thing, we make specialty, and, if our charges are not moderate, there's no need to be satisfied as moderate (like disrepair) is bridged or otherwise. Here you see our stock of watches, watch chains, spectacle, musical merchandise, in fact a nice stock of goods. Would be pleased to have you call or write.
